Slow roads lead to great adventures along the seven scenic byways of Western Massachusetts

There's nothing more American than a road trip. Put aside the schoolbooks, the schedules and the office headaches, and open your eyes to the splendors of quintessential New England—found in abundance along the seven scenic byways of Western Massachusetts. Consider an auto or bicycling tour. Relax, reconnect with loved ones, and marvel at the gorgeous views. You'll find something around every bend. A vintage bowling alley, a drive-in movie theater, world-class art museums, outdoor dance performances, pick-your-own berry farms, and more. Zipline as fast or as slow as you choose. Raft, cycle or swim.

Ski, snowshoe or snowmobile. Don't forget to pack the fishing rods, the cycling helmets and a picnic basket. Set out for a weekend adventure. Be spontaneous or use the byway map and website to help you plan your excursion. To learn more about points of interest in this brochure, visit bywayswestmass.com.

CONNECTICUT RIVER

Family farms, historic town centers, panoramic views of rolling hills, forests and pastures dominate the Massachusetts stretch of the Connecticut River National Scenic Byway. Hikers, paddlers, anglers, history buffs and art lovers will all find plenty of reasons to get out of the car and explore, or stretch this leisurely afternoon drive into a longer road trip.

bywayswestmass.com

Connecticut River

The STATS

Length: 38 miles in Massachusetts; the entire nationally designated scenic byway that extends into New Hampshire and Vermont totals 498 miles.

Link it up: The Connecticut River Scenic Byway crosses the Mohawk Trail Scenic Byway in Erving, and intersects with the Route 116 Scenic Byway in Sunderland.

DID YOU KNOW?

The byway traverses the bottom of Lake Hitchcock, an ancient glacial lake that at one time extended 200 miles from central Connecticut through Massachusetts to northern Vermont. The glacial lake deposits have resulted in the Connecticut River Valley having some of the best agricultural soil in the world.

Five ideas to jumpstart your trip

THE MONTAGUE MILL

With a bookstore, a café, artist galleries, antique shops and concerts all within a 19th-century gristmill, this is a great place to get lost for a few hours.

MOUNT TOBY

The three-mile hike to the top of Mount Toby rewards you with some of the best views around the Connecticut River Valley. For an interesting detour, find the spur trail leading to the ruins of a cabin that was part of an Irish settlement around 1850.

PORTER-PHELPS-HUNTINGTON MUSEUM

This historic site tells the story of six generations of a prosperous 18th-century farm. Guided tours glimpse the lives of three centuries of family, artisans, slaves and servants.

NEW ENGLAND NATIONAL SCENIC TRAIL

J.A. Skinner State Park in Hadley offers access to the New England National Scenic Trail, a 215-mile hiking trail with sections in Massachusetts and Connecticut.

LOCAL AGRICULTURE

Stop at one of the many farm stands, corn mazes, creameries, sugar shacks and bakeries along the byway. Changing seasons bring changing produce, from maple syrup and eggs to lettuce and spinach to eggplant and squash.

A NATIONAL SCENIC BYWAY

The Connecticut River Scenic Byway is the only nationally designated byway in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. The byway extends into New Hampshire and Vermont to the Canadian line. It straddles both sides of the New Hampshire-Vermont border until it reaches Massachusetts in Northfield, and continues to South Hadley. To make this trip a long loop, start in South Hadley and drive north, choosing either the New Hampshire or Vermont side of the byway. When you get to the border with Canada, return south on the opposite side of the river. Allow at least 14 hours to drive the entire byway along both sides of the river.

A DRIVE-IN THEATER THAT'S IN TWO PLACES AT ONCE

The Northfield Drive-in Movie Theater is one of the last drive-in movie theaters in Massachusetts, but half of it is actually in Winchester, New Hampshire.

A TREE OLDER THAN EVERYONE IN THE CAR, COMBINED

The "Buttonball Tree" in Sunderland is a huge sycamore that is estimated to be as old as the U.S. Constitution that was signed in 1787.

A MOUNTAINTOP HOTEL

Look for the white building on top of Mount Holyoke, called the Summit House. This was a popular hotel in the 1800s, when Mount Holyoke was a tourist destination on par with Niagara Falls; it is now a visitor center.

ONE-ROOM SCHOOLHOUSE

Just north of the entrance to J.A. Skinner State Park, see if you can find the brick one-room schoolhouse.

HOW HIGH CAN IT GET?

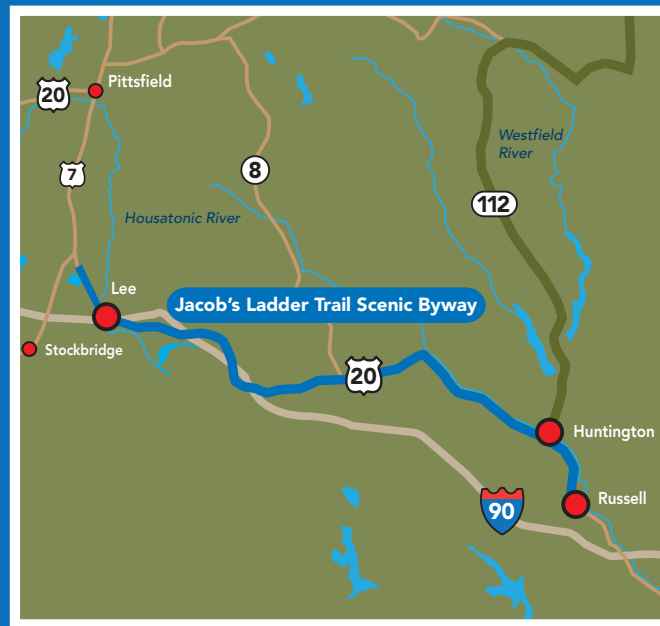

In the Hockanum Meadows of Hadley look for the post along the road that shows how high the floodwaters of the Connecticut River have risen in the past.

JACOB'S LADDER TRAIL

Take a drive across “the first of the great mountain crossovers” and feel transported back to a slower and simpler time.

The Jacob's Ladder Trail Scenic Byway traverses unspoiled and historic rural landscapes, anchored by Tekoa Mountain in the east and Laurel Lake in the west.

KEYSTONE ARCH BRIDGES

These 70-foot-high, mid-19th-century bridges in Middlefield, Becket and Chester are the oldest of their kind in the U.S. built for railroad use, and they're still used today. Walk the 2.5-mile trail to see these engineering marvels built without mortar or steel reinforcements.

WATERWAYS

Find great fishing and paddling in the Westfield and Housatonic Rivers, where native trout still swim freely, or visit novelist Edith Wharton's estate located on Laurel Lake's western shore.

JACOB'S PILLOW DANCE FESTIVAL

Every summer, the historic Carter Farm becomes one of the country's best places to see indoor and outdoor performances by dance troupes from around the world.

BOULDER PARK TRAIL IN CHESTER-BLANDFORD STATE FOREST

This easy, interpretive forest trail winds past massive boulders that were dropped by glaciers up to 18,000 years ago.

TALLEST WOODEN STEEPLE

The wooden-frame steeple of the First Congregational Church of Lee can be seen for miles and is reputed to be the tallest in New England. Its Seth Thomas clock system, which is wound weekly by hand, tolls every hour.

A DEER IN DISGUISE

Near the crest of the hill at Fred Snow Road, this local character is often dressed in sunglasses and other kooky costumes.

A HISTORIC ROCK MONUMENT

When the Jacob's Ladder Trail opened in 1910, people built a stone cairn—a pile of rocks—at the summit to mark the occasion.

MULTICOLORED ICICLES

Amazing icicles form on the rock cliffs near Route 23. Residents sometimes dye them with food coloring, continuing a tradition started by paper mills more than 100 years ago.

OLD CHESTER JAIL

This tiny 1840 jailhouse is now a museum about Chester's railroad history and includes a jail cell built to incarcerate incorrigible railroad workers. Limited operating hours.

TEKOA MOUNTAIN

This mountain rises above the Westfield National Wild and Scenic River and is identified by its bare rock and ledges where vegetation isn't able to take hold.

The STATS

Length: 35 miles

Link it up: The Jacob's Ladder Trail Scenic Byway intersects with the Route 112 Scenic Byway in Huntington.

DID YOU KNOW?

Jacob's Well and Jacob's Spring, near the Morey Hill Summit, were important stops for motorists in the early 20th century. Back then, cars often overheated climbing the hills of the Jacob's Ladder Trail, so visitors stopped here to cool down.

October Mountain, at 16,500 acres, is the largest state forest in Massachusetts.

MOHAWK TRAIL

The Mohawk Trail opened in 1914 as one of the first auto-touring roads in the country. This 69-mile scenic byway meanders through deep forest and historic towns, passing world-class art museums, early 20th-century tourist destinations, scenic hikes and dramatic vistas, all the while criss-crossing and paralleling five major rivers—Millers, Connecticut, Green, Deerfield and Hoosic.

EAGLES GUARDING A BRIDGE

On the French King Bridge are light posts from 1932 with sculptures of eagles perched on top. (Live bald eagles nest at Barton Cove just a couple of miles west.)

SKYDIVERS

While driving the byway near Orange, keep your eyes on the sky (unless your hands are on the wheel!) to look for parachutes—you're near Jumptown! at the Orange Airport, the oldest commercial skydiving center in the country.

A 100+-YEAR-OLD BOWLING ALLEY

The Shelburne Falls Bowling Alley is the second oldest in all of North America. It's been open since 1906 for candlepin bowling.

GIVING THANKS TO THE SUN

"Hail to the Sunrise" is a 900-pound bronze sculpture of a Mohawk Native American with his arms raised high. It was dedicated in 1932 to the Five Indian Nations of the Mohawk Trail.

THE HILLS HAVE EYES

On the lawn of Williams College Museum of Art you'll spot nine eyeballs. They're sculptures by Louise Bourgeois. Some of them light up, and some are benches you can sit on.

DID YOU KNOW?

The Mohawk Trail opened to great fanfare in 1914, but it could be closed for weeks at a time after a heavy snowfall. It had to be shoveled by hand! When the town of Florida bought a plow in 1930 it cleared the way for year-round tourism.

The Mohawk Trail was designated as a Scenic Byway in 1953, one of the first Scenic Byways in the country.

MOUNT GREYLOCK

On a clear day, the 3,491-foot summit of Mount Greylock offers panoramic views as far as 90 miles in all directions.

This short but breathtaking byway travels from open farmland in Lanesborough, through the forested Mount Greylock State Reservation, to the contemporary arts mecca of North Adams.

A RED COVERED BRIDGE

Be on the lookout for the red-painted Arthur A. Smith covered bridge in Colrain. It's one of the few remaining historic covered bridges in the state.

THE SHARPEST KNIFE

Keep an eye out for the hefty chef's knife on the sign in front of Lamson and Goodnow on Conway Street. This cutlery company has been in Shelburne Falls, generating power from the Deerfield River, since 1837.

TWO PEASE IN A POD

At the corner of Radiker Road and Route 112 in Worthington there are two big Victorian houses. They were wedding presents from piano maker Chauncey Pease to his daughters, so they could be "two Pease in a pod."

AN OLD-FASHIONED FUTURISTIC BRIDGE

The Knightville Dam Bridge was built in the 1930s Art Moderne style. It was meant to look futuristic and streamlined. Can you spot features that look like arrows pointing upward?

TRACES OF HISTORY

When you cross the Westfield River's East Branch on the Norwich Bridge in Huntington, look downstream to see if you can spot the foundation of a covered bridge that was here long ago.

DID YOU KNOW?

The Westfield River Wildwater Races started among friends in 1953 and the prize was two cases of beer. Now it's the oldest continuously held whitewater canoe and kayak race in the nation, with classes for novice and pro paddlers alike.

In May of 1812 Colrain was the first town in the United States to fly the American flag over a public schoolhouse.

ROUTE 116

This country road travels through wide-open spaces where you'll find endless possibilities to relax and enjoy the outdoors. Historic town centers speak of the region's agricultural and industrial past. Don't miss the chance to experience local creativity and hospitality in towns like Adams, Ashfield and South Deerfield.

THE CLIFFS OF MOUNT SUGARLOAF

Even though it's only 791 feet high, Mount Sugarloaf's sandstone cliffs are visible for miles around, especially from nearby Sunderland. The views from the observation deck are stunning, highlighting the Connecticut River and surrounding farmland.

A STUCK STONE GUARDING A BRIDGE

The 1870 Burkeville Covered Bridge in Conway is one of the oldest in the country. Look for the replica millstone out front that looks like a stone disc coming out of the ground. It was placed there as part of a recent restoration.

A MAZE OF TUBES IN THE WOODS?

In late winter, you might notice blue tubes strung through trees on the side of the road. These tubes collect sap from maple sugar trees that is boiled down into maple syrup, maple cream and maple candy. It takes 40 gallons of sap to make 1 gallon of syrup!

IT'S TIME TO EAT

The historic Miss Adams Diner began life as Lunch Car 821 on the Worcester Railroad line and was moved to this spot in 1938, where the cooks still serve up classic breakfast and lunch fare.
